*** END OF REPORT ***

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased from 10.5 million to 12.5 million, and the number of people aged 75 and over has increased from 4.5 million to 6.5 million (Office of National Statistics 2000). The number of people aged 65 and over is projected to increase to 15.5 million by 2020, and the number of people aged 75 and over to 8.5 million (Office of National Statistics 2000).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of older people in the UK. The Department of Health (2000) has published a strategy for older people, which sets out the government's commitment to improve the health and social care of older people. The strategy is based on three main principles: (1) to ensure that older people have access to the services they need; (2) to ensure that older people are treated with respect and dignity; and (3) to ensure that older people are able to live independently and actively. The strategy also sets out a number of specific objectives, including: to reduce the number of older people who are in long-term care; to improve the quality of care for older people; to ensure that older people are able to live independently and actively; and to ensure that older people are treated with respect and dignity.

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased by 1.5 million (1990–1999) and is projected to increase by a further 1.5 million by 2010 (Office of National Statistics 2000). The number of people aged 65 and over in the UK is projected to increase from 10.5 million in 1999 to 12.5 million in 2010, with the number of people aged 75 and over increasing from 4.5 million to 5.5 million in the same period (Office of National Statistics 2000).

There is a growing awareness of the need to develop strategies to meet the needs of the ageing population. The Department of Health (2000) has identified the need to develop a 'new paradigm' for the care of the elderly, which is based on the principles of 'active ageing'. This paradigm is based on the idea that ageing is a process, and that the needs of the elderly are not static. It is therefore necessary to develop strategies that can meet the needs of the elderly at different stages of their life.

The Department of Health (2000) has identified three key areas of focus for the new paradigm: (1) the need to promote the health and well-being of the elderly; (2) the need to ensure that the elderly have access to the services and resources that they need; and (3) the need to ensure that the elderly are able to participate in the activities of their community. These three areas of focus are interrelated, and it is necessary to develop strategies that address all three areas.

SECTION 1: 2019 EFFECTIVE TAX RATE (No New Taxes)

The effective tax rate enables the public to evaluate the relationship between taxes for the prior year and for the current year based on a tax rate that would produce the same amount of taxes (no new taxes) if applied to the same properties that are taxed in both years. When appraisal values increase, the effective tax rate should decrease.

SECTION 2: 2019 ROLLBACK TAX RATE

The rollback rate is split into two separate rates: 1. Maintenance and Operations (M&O): The M&O portion is the tax rate that is needed to raise the same amount of taxes that the taxing unit levied in the prior year plus eight percent. This rate accounts for such things as salaries, utilities and day-to-day operations. 2. Debt: The debt tax rate includes the debt service necessary to pay the taxing unit's debt payments in the coming year. This rate accounts for principal and interest on bonds and other debt secured by property tax revenue. In most cases the rollback tax rate exceeds the effective tax rate, but occasionally decreases in a taxing unit's debt service will cause the effective tax rate to be higher than the rollback tax rate.
